Agenda 2030, Preamble

UNEP contribution to Agenda 2030

- UNEP played a critical role in creating the Agenda, laying the conceptual groundwork to ensure environmental sustainability was reflected in the goals, targets and indicators as a cross-cutting issue and priority.
  - UNEP promotes integrating the environmental, social and economic dimensions to secure long-term human and environmental well-being.
  - UNEP has also advocated for the principle of universality in the agenda. Universality requires the recognition of universal principles, standards and values applicable to all countries and all peoples.
  - UNEP is the primary UN organization mandated to support the monitoring of the environment. UNEP has been working with the Inter-agency Expert Group on SDG Indicators (IEAG-SDG) and the UN Statistical Commission (UNSC) to ensure that the Agenda is well-balanced and serves as a mechanism for bringing the environmental dimension into the indicator framework.
  - 1/3 of the indicators are directly related to the environment. UNEP is playing a role by either taking the lead or contributing to the implementation of the 80 environment-related indicators in coordination with other actors. Indicators with an environmental focus will be made available on UNEP Live, which will bring together information from multiple sources to serve as a central database for tracking progress and monitoring the environment's contribution in achieving the goals.
